

ERG Masters Project Presentations 2008

Wednesday, May 7

Barrows 110, 4:00-6:00 pm

Sally Maki - Saving Energy with Information Technology

John Stanley - Data Center Energy Efficiency: Granular Monitoring and Organizational Communication

Danielle Svehla - Catching the Public Eye: The promise of visual communication in science knowledge and awareness

Debbie Cheng – The Global Water Agendas of the UN and World Bank

Dannette Lambert – Political Opportunities and Shifting Frameworks in Resistance to Uranium Mining: The JOAR Case

Lindsey Fransen – Common Resources, Private Benefits? Shifting Access in Mexico's Community Forests

Niels Tomijima - Distribution of Access: A Case-Study of Micro-Hydro Electrification

Thursday, May 8

Barrows 20, 5:00-7:00 pm

Christian Casillas – Wind Power Generation in Low Wind Regimes on the Atlantic Coast of Nicaragua

Josh Apte – Exposure to Vehicular Air Pollution in Developing World Megacities

Zachary Subin – Supply Curves for Greenhouse Gas Reductions in California Transportation

Mike Ferry – The Renewable Energy in Vehicles (REV) Mandate: A Proposed Renewable Portfolio Standard for California's Light-Duty Vehicle Fleet

Scott Zimmermann – Sustainable Biofuels: Addressing Indirect Land Use Through Unilateral Measures that are Compatible with International Trade Law

Kristen Durham - Planning a Bioenergy Future: Understanding Uncertainty in Biomass Resource Assessment in China

Anna Motschenbacher – Scaling the North: Spatial Heterogeneity in High Latitude Land Cover Classifications